ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

About 200 delegates will assemble at Yorktown, Texas, during next week, April 21 to 26, for the annual convention of the Texas District, American Lutheran Church. Mr. Felix Batot will attend this meeting as representative delegate of St. Paul's, and will accompany the pastor on Tuesday morning, Rev. C. G. Hankammer, is pastor of St. Paul's Church in Yorktown, where the convention met in 1932. The beautiful church and spacious basement equipment serve very well to take care of the visitors. One of the major issues before the convention is the discussion relative to making Texas Lutheran College at Seguin a four year senior college. The Texas Centennial at Dallas will come in for much consideration in view of the fact that our body will have a Lutheran Exhibit in the Hall of Religion. The American Lutheran Church will meet at San Antonio in October, and preparations for this event will occupy the convention. Rev. E. A. Sagebiel of Seguin, whose five year term of office expires with this convention, is president of the Texas District.

Due to this convention there will be no church or Sunday school on Sunday, April 26. Therefore, next Sunday morning there will be German service at 10:30 and English service at night at 8:00. English service on Sunday, May 3, at 10:30. Church service at Sprotville Sunday at 2:30.

We hope you will enjoy the free concert of the Texas Lutheran College Band at Hondo High School auditorium Monday, April 20, at 8:00 P. M.

W. M. S. MEETS.

The Missionary Society of the Hondo Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. D. H. Fly Tuesday, April 14, with twenty members present and two visitors.

Mrs. Newton held the devotional. Mrs. Fly gave the leaflet on the People's House. Mrs. Carle gave a little welcome to the visitors and a tribute to the older members. Mrs. Fly's mother, Mrs. McCulloch, was the oldest one there. She was celebrating her 80th anniversary. She is a member of the Buda Missionary Society.

The meeting was turned over to Miss Fly for a social hour. Our annual missionary birthday was observed with a big empty cake and as the months were called each member who had a birthday that month deposited a penny for each year of her age, in the cake.

As a very pleasant surprise to all the doors to the dining room were opened and the members were invited to come in. The table was decorated with a lace cloth and candles and in the center was a beautiful angel food cake with fifty candles. This was celebrating fifty years of the Missionary Society. Mrs. McClaugherty, the oldest member, gave a short history of the society. She also cut the first slice of the cake. The hostesses, Mrs. Fly and Mrs. Carter, served very delicious refreshments of cake and ice cream.

Publicity Chairman.

HONDO METHODIST CHURCH.

Shan M. Hull, Pastor.

We wish to take this method of expressing our most hearty appreciation and thanks to our people for the contributions last Sunday morning, during our Communion service. The offering will help considerably toward the payment of one-half of our Conference Benevolences by the time of the meeting of the District Conference which will convene at Uvalde, Monday evening, April 20-22. After checking the banks, we find that there are a number of the banks that were not brought in last Sunday. We would appreciate it very much if those who did not get to present their banks would see that they reach the church not later than next Sunday. If that is done, it will relieve us of having to send out a committee to gather them up. We will make the report of the amount contributed just as soon as we hear from the other banks.

The pastor is away in a revival meeting at Pearsall, and will be away for two Sundays. Our Presiding Elder, Rev. J. J. Mason, will preach for us this coming Sunday morning and evening. Announcements will be made later about the following Sunday morning and evening services.

IT RAINED.

The brassy sky of the past few days became somewhat flecked with clouds Wednesday, and about 3 A. M. Thursday morning the roll of thunder awakened a slumbering people to the welcome patter of raindrops.

Inquiry later brought the information that the area watered was limited but the precipitation here amounted to 1.32 inch. It will prove very helpful to languishing vegetation, but more is needed.

At the hour of going to press there are indications that more rain may fall soon.

WANTED, TENANT.

I will build a brick business house to suit the tenant along side the building now occupied by Pallo's Bargain Store. For terms apply to JACOB REILY.

To Our Subscribers

TO THOSE DELINQUENT:

Knowing that most of you are like ourselves, harassed by shortage of money on account of the depression and the effects of former drouths, we have sought to trouble you as little as was humanly possible about subscription renewals. We would like to pass up the matter now until you found it convenient to pay without urge or solicitation, but the postal regulations require that we discontinue the sending of our paper to you after you have had "a period of one year from the date of expiration" to renew for a definite time or make "a bona fide promise to pay". So if you know yourself to be coming under this postal proscription with your subscription, a prompt renewal or a written request from you for extension of your time with a promise to pay must be sent without delay or we necessarily have to discontinue your paper without further notice. We have no option in the matter as the "second class mailing privilege" is the life of the newspaper and it can be held only by conforming to the rules and regulations proscribed by the postal authorities.

Please do not overlook or neglect to heed this and save us from needless expense and yourself from missing the regular visits of your paper. Here is the Postoffice rule that makes the above necessary:

"4. Expired subscriptions. "The right of publishers to extend in good faith credit on subscriptions is recognized and will not be abridged, and although all subscriptions are regarded as expiring with the period for which they were obtained, nevertheless, in order to give an opportunity to secure renewals, copies of their publications shall be accepted for mailing as to subscribers at the usual second-class rates of postage for a period of one year from the date of expiration, except in the case of subscriptions for less than one year, but copies sent to persons after one year from the date of expiration of their subscriptions, or, in the case of subscriptions for less than one year, copies sent after the date of the expiration thereof unless such subscriptions be expressly renewed for a definite time, together with an actual payment of subscription or a bona fide promise of payment, shall not be accepted as subscribers' copies but shall be accepted as other than subscribers' copies at the rates shown in Section 546."

Thanking you in advance for a prompt and favorable response, We are yours to serve,

THE EDITORS.

Mr. Rothe was elected county surveyor of Medina County in 1926, which office he holds at the present time. He likewise has a State Land Surveyor's License, which he was granted by the State Board of Land Surveyors in 1928.

TO SOFTBALL FANS.

Remember those chain letters when you broke loose from a dime and hoped for the best? Then get yourself a dime's worth of the newest idea—one with no catch in it. The rules are simple. Take in those Thursday night double-enders under the lights on the Plaza and start those dimes to bringing a little faith and hope—two good games each night will make you realize there is no charity involved, as you will be fully repaid. The boys like to play for your amusement, so much so in fact, that each player has donated a dollar for that privilege, but they have found that this fund will be insufficient to take care of the overhead of the plant. Those dimes from the sidelines will keep the ball rolling. A great many enjoy the games; that small donation from you at each game will make it possible for them to continue.

THE CHALLENGE TO FARM LEADERSHIP.

Theodore Roosevelt once said: "The great rural interests are human interests, and good crops or livestock are of little value to the farmer unless they open the door to a good kind of life on the farm". That many present problems are due to the neglect of this truth is pointed out in The Progressive Farmer by Alexander Nunn, who writes in part:

"It is a peculiar fact that there seems never to have been in America a general recognition of the close relation of our economic and social farm problems.

"We have worried about cooperative marketing and purchasing and producing and have but recently begun to recognize that if we bring individuals together regularly in social affairs or in recreational activities or to tackle local educational problems together we have the best foundation for cooperation in business activities. Is there anyone who honestly believes the individual farmer is naturally so desirous of 'independence' that he will refuse to work with others, even if it brings poverty on himself? Mostly, he has never had a chance to learn how to work with others or to appreciate how teamwork gets results.

"If there is one solution to all our farm problems we believe it will be found in this socio-economic team. And there are many indications that we are on our way. Far seeing college leaders are adding courses in rural organization, principles of co-operation, dramas, and play. Wise extension leaders are adding recreation and rural organization specialists to their forces. No other group, it seems to us, is showing greater wisdom than the Smith-Hughes forces through their Future Farmer program. Here tomorrow's farmers are not only learning the latest methods in up-to-date farming but are learning teamwork through buying and selling together, growing new crops to supply seed for the community, growing shrubbery to beautify their homes and school, building FFA libraries, learning how to preside at meetings, taking an active lead in general problems, and withal finding time for regular, wholesome recreation through educational tours, father-son and mother-daughter banquets, athletic teams, and socials planned jointly with students in home economics clubs."

Windrow's Pill Rollers captured the opening game last Thursday night by defeating Leinweber's Lions 13 to 9. The score was tied at 9 all, at the end of the fifth inning. The Pill Rollers broke the tie in the sixth, when an error, three hits and a walk allowed them to push across three runs. They added another run on two safeties in the last inning, to bring their total to 13 runs. The Lions went scoreless after the fifth inning.

In the second game of the evening, the Sinclair Dinosaurs won their second straight victory by defeating the F. F. A. team 17 to 9. Although out-hit 15 to 12 the Dinosaurs took advantage of the wild pitching of Sharp, who issued 6 passes in the first two innings, and scored nine runs in the first two frames. Rath with a triple and 2 singles out of three trips to the plate, and Gerfers with four safeties out of five times up led the hitting attack for the oilmen. Brucks hit a homer for the Dinosaurs, Stiegler and H. Schweers each hit circuit blows for the Farmers.

Congressmen Hurrying With Tax and Relief Programs—
Black's Committee Wins a Decision—Distracting Rivalries in European Diplomacy.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

Harry L. Hopkins

CONGRESS settled down to earnest work that would clear the way for early adjournment, the two chief matters under consideration being taxes and relief. Democratic members of the house ways and means committee worked in executive session to draw up the new revenue measure which they expect will yield about $799,000,000 in additional taxes during the next year. The minority members stayed away, scornfully asserting their presence was useless because the preparation of the measure was utterly partisan.

Harry L. Hopkins, head of the WPA, appeared before a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee, also in executive session, to urge compliance with President Roosevelt's request for an additional billion and a half to finance relief in the 1937 fiscal year. Various committee members at once demanded that Mr. Hopkins tell what had been done with the $4,800,000,000 granted last year. He was said to have promised to do his best to satisfy them, but Chairman J. P. Buchanan warned the minority members that "this is not to be made into an investigation."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, happy and well tanned, wound up his fishing cruise in the Bahamas and returned to Washington. He landed at Fort Lauderdale and boarded his special train at once, being accompanied for a time by Governor Sholtz of Florida and James A. Moffett who may be appointed assistant secretary of the navy to succeed the late Henry Roosevelt. Governor McNutt of Indiana, possible keynote of the Democratic convention, went up from Miami to greet the President.

On the way to Washington Mr. Roosevelt stopped for half a day at Warm Springs, Ga., to look at his farm and take a swim in the resort pool. Passing through part of the region devastated by the recent tornadoes, he received reports from eyewitnesses along the route.

SENATOR BLACK'S lobby committee won a considerable victory in the District of Columbia Supreme court when Chief Justice Wheat refused to enjoin the committee from using the telegrams from and to William R. Hearst which had been seized. The judge held that the court had no jurisdiction over the committee, and said he could not see that the freedom of the press was in any way involved. Said his honor:

"I have not been informed yet of any case in which any court has assumed to dictate to a committee of the senate what it should do and what it should not do, and I do not feel that I have any right to inaugurate any such principle as that."

Elisha Hanson, counsel for Mr. Hearst, announced that he would appeal from the decision, and it was certain that the case would ultimately be taken before the United States Supreme court.

Continuing its investigation, the Black committee heard the testimony of Fred G. Clark of New York, national commander of the Crusaders. Mr. Clark denied that the organization had ever engaged in lobbying, and declared that it had assailed the methods of lobbyists in a national radio broadcast.

Senator Black endeavored to show that the Crusaders, the American Liberty league, the Sentinels of the Republic, the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, the American Taxpayers' league, the National Economy league, and similar organizations opposed to the New Deal were supported largely by the same small group of wealthy industrialists. One of his investigators put in a list of contributors to two or more of the groups named. Mr. Clark obtained permission to include in the record a list of hundreds of small contributors, who sent in sums ranging from $1 up in response to the radio program.

MUSSOLINI'S African adventure and Hitler's Rhineland doings and future intentions, tangled together, have created a situation that seemed to imperil the formal friendship between Great Britain and France. The British were insisting that Italy be curbed, that her use of polson gas in Ethiopia be taken up by the League of Nations and that peace negotiations between Italy and Ethiopia be opened quickly to forestall any attempt by Premier Mussolini to sign a settlement which might rise from ruins of Haile Selassie's Ethiopian empire. Foreign Secretary Eden indicated the British were determined to make peace progress "before we leave Geneva." Britain reserving its decision as to what to do next if this conciliation effort failed.

The conciliation committee of the league was making little or no progress, and in Rome Mussolini told his cabinet that Ethiopia's armies should and would be "totally annihilated." His own forces, meanwhile, were moving rapidly toward Dessye and Addis Ababa.

France was reverting to her former policy of letting Italy go ahead with its African conquest, devoting her attention mainly to Germany and central Europe. The British continued to treat all that in a conciliatory way, which disgusted the French. Premier Sarraut handed in his government's reply to the Hitler settlement proposals, submitting in return its own plan. This demanded that Germany keep "hands off" the rest of Europe for 25 years, renouncing her apparent intentions of action against Austria, Danzig and Memel, and claims for colonies. It submitted a French peace plan based on "collective security" with regional mutual assistance pacts backed by an international army directed by a commission working through the league.

FEDERAL money totaling $976,000,000 will be spent in the next four years on low-cost rent and slum clearance construction projects, provided the administration's housing bill, introduced by Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, is passed by congress. Mr. Wagner hopes it will be put through during the present session.

The measure is a compromise of the many proposals made by the various relief and housing agencies of the New Deal and was drafted after a series of conferences with President Roosevelt. It would create another bureau, with five directors, including the secretary of the interior in his ex officio capacity, receiving $10,000 salaries.

The authority would be empowered to make grants not to exceed 45 per cent of the total cost and loans for the remainder to any public housing agency for the acquisition of land and the construction of "low-rent" housing projects. The loans would be repayable over a period not to exceed 60 years, at such rates of interest as the authority decreed.

FLYING through a fog on its way to Pittsburgh, a Transcontinental and Western Air liner went far out of its course, plowed through the forest seven miles southeast of Union City, Pa., and smashed into a granite wall on Chestnut Ridge. Nine passengers and the two pilots were killed. The stewardess, Miss Nellie Granger, managed to drag one man and the sole woman passenger from the flaming wreckage, bound up their wounds, ran four miles to a farmhouse from which she telephoned to Pittsburgh the news of the disaster, and then returned to the scene to care for the survivors until a rescue party could arrive. The pilots were flying on a radio beam, and it was believed their radio apparatus failed. At this writing there is no other explanation.

SOMETHING new in Spanish history took place in Madrid. The parliament, by a vote of 238 to 5, ousted Niceto Alcalá Zamora from the office of president of the republic. This action, accomplished by a coalition of Socialists, Communists, Left Republicans and ten minor groups, was taken on a Socialist motion that the president had acted illegally in dissolving the last parliament before the elections and that therefore he should be expelled from office. Back of this motion, however, lay radical sentiment that Zamora, in using his power according to personal whim, has hampered the progress of the "republican revolution."

Diego Martinez Barrio, speaker of parliament, was made temporary president to serve until elections are held. RUSSIA has rejected China's protest against the soviet-Outer Mongolian mutual assistance pact, but asserted the treaty does not signify any territorial claim by the Soviet union over China or Outer Mongolia. The Russians believe that Japan plans to set up puppet states in North China and Inner Mongolia and then to seize Outer Mongolia.

The Manchukuo government gave out details of a bloody battle between Manchukuoans and Outer Mongolians in which the latter were repulsed, losing six bombing planes and some tanks.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—In the last few weeks in Washington, we have heard little about any governmental affairs except taxes. Everyone charged with responsibility for maintenance of government credit or the maintenance of the supply of cash to carry on the era of spending is talking about taxes. It is in truth the predominant subject, overshadowing even the lobby investigation headed by Senator Black, Alabama Democrat, with that committee's record of obtaining private telegrams by subterfuge.

It really is not startling that everyone should be talking about taxes because, however you examine the question of government at this time, your analysis must inevitably lead back to the question of the source of funds. And how could it be otherwise? We have a national debt $5,000,000,000 larger than it has ever been before, and still going higher; we have seven or nine or eleven million people unemployed—depending on the source of your information on this point—and we are confronted with declarations from President Roosevelt and his advisers that more must be spent. It seems perfectly obvious, therefore, that saner minds should be examining the whole economic structure of the nation to determine from whence the money is to come.

Congress is in the midst of working out a new tax bill. The house of representatives, where revenue legislation must originate, according to the Constitution which is still operative, is up to its neck with the tax problem. It is trying to work out a tax bill that will carry out the White House orders to take more money from corporations by levies on surpluses along with some minor schemes of taxation designed to increase the total somewhat.

During the time the house ways and means committee was trying to formulate a tax program on the basis of the President's tax message, there was a perfect deluge of tax discussion hereabouts. I think it may be said in this connection, also, that the house ways and means committee did a rather ridiculous thing as a preliminary to presentation of a tax bill to the house. It actually began hearings on tax legislation without a tax bill in legislative language having been drafted. As far as I can learn, it was the first time that witnesses were called in and asked to testify as to the efficacy of proposed tax legislation when there was actually no language in legislative form about which those witnesses could testify, either for or against. All the committee had before it was a so-called "committee report," a statement of its views as to what ought to be done and it was almost pitiful to witness individuals who are expert on taxation attempting to catch on to some will-o'-the-wisp and say that it was sound or unsound. Yet, that was what Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, and his committee asked them to do.

Perhaps I ought to explain for the benefit of those not acquainted with tax legislation that there is nothing so important in a tax bill as the exact language. There are few places in law where the use of a particular word or the placing of a particular comma makes so much difference. In tax law, the dotting of an i and the crossing of a t are, indeed, important.

One benefit has accrued from this situation, however, and I hope, as I believe everyone else desiring good government and proper laws hopes, that it will result in a tax bill generally more acceptable than has been proposed thus far. The maelstrom of discussion that has arisen from the house ways and means committee hearings has made a good many people "tax conscious." Being "tax conscious" at this time, a good many men capable of thinking straight have begun to offer suggestions.

I have been receiving some of them myself and one that has come to me has impressed me so much that I am going to use the substance of it in this column. It comes to me from Mr. Harry A. Wheeler, widely known business executive and banker of Chicago. Mr. Wheeler has been recognized for a quarter of a century as a man who is given to looking rather far into the future and for his ability to analyze problems, circumstances and conditions on a long-term basis rather than on urgency of current requirements.

"Since the consideration of the corporate surplus tax act began," Mr. Wheeler wrote me, "I have watched the proceedings closely for some alternative proposal that would produce a substantial tax revenue and yet tend to strengthen the program of the administration to assure continuing business recovery, create definite added employment in industries still down, and lower production costs and prices to the ultimate consumer.

"No one denies that increased federal revenue by taxation is imperative, but it may be open to argument whether this can best be produced by the direct route of tax levies to cover full requirement or by beginning with a plan that will produce a large proportion of the requirements and permit the use of the remainder to accomplish the results first above stated.

"The proposal is very simple, quite capable of being written into legislative provisions; it would carry a clear guarantee of useful results and reach the final full requirements of the government by progressively increasing taxable profits.

"I propose that whatever per cent of undistributed profits may be determined upon as the tax base, permission shall be given for a draw-back or retention of say 20, 25 or 33 1/3 per cent on condition that this amount shall be used for capital expenditure to improve and cheapen production and distribution facilities.

"The draw-back may be by repayment to the taxpayer upon voucher evidence that the amount has been actually expended or by credit upon the second year's tax levy.

"Corporations will not fail to use this remainder and perhaps even add to it out of their available corporate resources.

"Permanent goods industries will at once be stimulated by the knowledge that purchases will be made to an aggregate of the draw-back, and stimulation of employment must result in most needed quarters.

"The universality of this improvement in production and distribution facilities will create the competitive conditions that will compel savings to be passed on to consumers, but if any corporation tries to hold the added profits they will be taxed away in the following years.

"Living standards may be raised by making more commodities come within the range of prices the public will pay.

"Forced distribution in dividends to escape corporate high brackets will find a large part being paid to stockholders taxed in very low brackets and the result over all is not unlikely to prove disappointing.

"Increased tax rates on income or earnings leads to the struggle to avoid payment by every device that can be developed. It may be that this plan of draw-back would distinctly modify this tendency."

It is the first time that I have heard from any source the suggestion that the tax law should be made an instrument to encourage business recovery and promote employment. All of the objections heretofore have been directed at the character of the proposal and have not included constructive thoughts which could be used as a new base. Mr. Wheeler's plan may not be complete. It may not represent an answer to the tax needs in their entirety, but it must be said in its favor that it suggests an approach to the necessary answer and embodies therein a plan of action which will not kill the goose that lays the golden egg. In other words, it has been proved too many times to require discussion that higher tax rates reduce the incentive and the chief opposition to the administration proposal is just that. It takes away the incentive of the corporations to make more money which would be available for taxation. The Wheeler proposal, therefore, offers an incentive to corporations to proceed with plans of expanding their operation and thereby increase the number of workers on their pay rolls.

I repeat that I do not know whether the Wheeler program is the complete answer but the fact that a man of his status in the country's business life is giving consideration to the tax problem on a long-term basis leads certainly to two conclusions. These conclusions are, first, that the country is nearing the limits of what might be called reasonable taxation and, second, that a very great majority of our people believe some consideration should be given to the need for an end to government spending.

If taxation has reached the point where an overexpanded federal government requires so much money that it must take away the backlogs, the reserves of business, then it is quite apparent that a shrinkage in this structure called government must begin. If it does not, one could reasonably say that government credit is endangered, or will be if the spending continues much longer.

We have been using up our resources actually in billions for the construction of many different types of things from which no earnings accrue. Then, in addition, I think no one can deny but that there has been wide-spread waste of these funds. It is a splendid thing to have excellent roads, fine public buildings, beautiful parks and restored forests, etc., but they have to be paid for out of taxpayers' money. Moreover, there is no profit available from any such investments that can be taxed. That money is gone, dead. It is fine to have those things if we can afford them, but beauty of the countryside won't fill empty stomachs.

Ethiopia Rains Bombs
Six Marriage Troubles
Marilyn Miller Is Dead
Another Big Question

Addis Ababa is bombed by Italian planes from more than a mile above the city, natives shooting at the Italian pilots with rifles that could not possibly carry one-quarter of the distance. Correspondents with receiving sets listened to the Italian pilots talking to each other by radio. Haile Selassie, hurrying south, was not at home when they called. That war should be over soon.

Arthur Brisbane

Dr. Alice E. Johnson, psychiatrist of Philadelphia's Municipal court, gives six reasons for marriage failures. They are: Different family backgrounds of husband and wife; relatives interfering, especially mothers-in-law; infidelity; incompatibility; alcoholism, and a desire to "dominate." There is a seventh reason, to be found in the nature of man, who is still 98 per cent in the age of barbarism.

Marilyn Miller is dead, only thirty-eight years old. The little town of Findlay, Ohio, or the bigger town of New York, might well erect some monument to her memory. She contributed a great deal to human cheerfulness and happiness, and it may be said of her, as Samuel Johnson said, referring to the death of the great actor, Garrick, that her death "eclipsed the gaiety of nations and impoverished the public's stock of harmless pleasure."

A lady who signs "B. A. G." is interested in very serious things. She writes: "The more I hear of those big armies, the more I am reminded of the huge population of hell. What is your idea of hell?"

That big question may be answered later. An aged colored man once told his pastor: "I don't believe in hell, because I don't think any constitution could stand it."

"It worries me," says the lady, "that so many men are afraid of poverty here upon earth, and not afraid of hell." Miss B. A. G. is certain that hell is real, a belief that must be comforting to those anxious to have the wicked punished.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the Chase National bank, biggest in America, knows about money, as did his father before him, the late senator from Rhode Island, who invented the Federal Reserve plan and put it through. Mr. Aldrich thinks it would not be a good idea to turn money loose and encourage a speculative, stock-gambling boom. He remembers 1929.

Under certain circumstances "the prospect of inflation is very grave indeed," says Mr. Aldrich and warns against "the erection of a top-heavy structure of credit again."

When a woman starts, she keeps going, nearly always. Nothing could stop Joan of Arc, Dr. Mary Walker, or Nellie Bly on her trip around the world. Now Amy Johnson, married name Mollison, sets out alone in a streamlined monoplane to beat the record on a flight to Cape Town and back.

All alone, down to the other side of the world and back again, over ocean, forests, wild beasts and wilder men. And fools used to say women lacked courage!

An offensive and defensive treaty between Japan and Germany, like the one between France and Russia, is considered a certainty.

It should be possible for nations that want to survive and prosper to get together and let others that must fight kill each other off until they tire of it. This country, at least, should carry out that plan.

Japan and Russia have passed from the "warning" stage to border fighting on the Russian side. Planes, war tanks and heavy artillery are taken across the Manchukuo border by Russia, and that "looks like business."

Russia will soon know how much Mongolia will be worth as a protection against Japan, and Europe may soon know the value of Russia as a protection against Asia.

The Canadian Press news service says Canada's wealth has shrunk almost six thousand million dollars since 1929. That will be only a temporary shrinkage.

You know that England is worried about something when you read that she now demands that the league establish an oil embargo against Italy. A little late, but it is explained that England is outraged by Italy's use of poison gas against the Ethiopians. Mussolini used something worse than poison gas against England when he occupied the Lake Tana region.

FACING Ted Warren across a table in a secluded alcove of the Lakeside club, Ruth Potter said, "Ted, what do you think of Bob Seaver?"

Ted looked at her quickly. "Bob Seaver?" he said. "Why? . . . I guess he's all right. Why? . . . Ruth shrugged and smiled a vague, meaningless smile. "Nothing. . . I knew you and he were much. I wanted to know more about him."

"But why? What's the reason for it? You must have a reason. A definite reason." There was persistent anxiety in Ted's expression and in his voice.

Ruth looked at him gravely. "Of course I have a reason," she said. "And a very definite reason."

"He's asked you to marry him? That's it! He's proposed and that's why you want to know more about him?" Ted's voice had become filled with bitterness. He thrust forward his jaw. "You've accepted him," he accused.

"Why, Ted, what possible reason have you for looking at me like that?" He relaxed, seemed to get control of himself.

"I'm sorry," he said, "I didn't mean to act that way. I don't blame you for accepting him. Bob's a mighty fine chap."

"But, Ted, whatever is the matter? What possible difference could my marrying make . . . to you?"

"To me?" He laughed, a sort of rasping sound. "What difference . . . but why go into that? It's over now. I . . . I hope you'll both be happy."

The smile suddenly left Ruth's face. She tilted her chin and anger flashed in her eyes.

"Ted Warren, you're acting mean. Horribly mean. We started out to have a very pleasant evening. And it seems to be ruined, because I asked you a simple question. I think it's only fair that you offer me some sort of explanation for your attitude."

Ted gestured. He started to speak, changed his mind, looked at the girl steadily.

"Haven't you any idea why the fact that you're going to marry Bob Seaver upset me?"

"Not the slightest."

"Then you must be pretty stupid."

"I? Stupid? Ted Warren, you will kindly apologize for making that remark!"

"I won't. I won't apologize in a thousand years. Because it's true. You are stupid. Any girl is stupid who can't tell when a man's in love with her."

"In love— Ted Warren, what are you saying?"

"I'm saying that I've been in love with you for three years. And you're stupid if you don't realize it!"

"You? In love with me? Why, Ted?"

Her eyes opened wide, one hand went to the bosom.

"But—but was I supposed to guess?"

"It's quite plain now. I mean, the reason why you didn't guess. You were too occupied thinking of Bob Seaver."

His voice had become bitter again.

"But—why didn't you tell me?"

"Thank heavens I didn't. Say, if I'd ever had the courage to propose and been turned down, it would have been worse than—than it is now."

"You haven't answered my question: Why didn't you?"

"Why?" He looked at her. "Say, what is this? You seem almighty interested in why I didn't. But since you ask, I'll tell you. Because I didn't have the courage. Because I'm not handsome and witty and popular like the others. Like Bob Seaver. Because I knew I wouldn't stand a chance with a girl like you."

"But you must cer—"

"What?"

"Nothing."

"Listen," said Ted, leaning across the table.

"I want to know what it was you started to say."

"I started to say that if anyone is stupid, it's you."

"Me? Why?"

"To have thought that."

"Thought what?"

She sighed. An exasperated look came into her eyes.

"Ted Warren, sometimes I wonder just why I went to all this bother."

"What bother?"

"The bother of trying to make you— of trying to tell you—of trying to find out—oh, bother!"

Ted took a long breath. He looked around. There was no one near. He leaned across the table again.

"Ruth, if I had proposed, what would you have said?"

"Of all the silly things! Why don't you propose and find out?"

"Propose? Now, listen, Ruth, you just got through telling me that you accepted Bob Seaver—"

"I said no such thing!"

"Do you mean you didn't accept him?"

"I mean, I didn't get a chance."

Ted bit his lip.

"Listen, let's start over again. You asked me what I thought of Bob Seaver."

"And you said he'd proposed to me and I accepted him."

"Which was wrong?"

"Yes."

"And then we talked about other things."

"Yes."

"And now that it's all over, we have gotten nowhere."

"That," said Ruth, "depends wholly upon you."

Ted looked around again. The immediate vicinity was still deserted. He took a long breath.

"Ruth," he said, "will you marry me?"

"Why, of course, Ted. What ever made you think I wouldn't?"

Ted looked at her. He didn't know quite what to think. He didn't have the faintest idea how to act. He wondered what a man did under such circumstances. He tried to remember how he'd planned it if this moment ever arrived.

He stood up and came around the table. When he reached Ruth she was on her feet. Her eyes were shining and there was a radiant look in her face. He took her into his arms. She yielded. They kissed. The kiss lasted quite a while. At last she drew away. A waiter was standing in the entrance of the alcove, watching them. He was grinning. Ruth blushed, but Ted didn't pay any attention. He seemed in a trance. He said:

"Ruth, I take it back."

Ruth forgot the waiter. She looked alarmed.

"Take it—back?"

"What I said about not apologizing for calling you stupid. I do apologize. You're not stupid. It's I who am stupid."

"Yes," said Ruth, "you are." She seemed vastly relieved. "That's why I love you." Whereupon they kissed again, which seemed to delight the waiter.

Old Leap Year Law Said

"Take Her, or Look Out"

With another leap year well on its way, with its legendary privilege of allowing women to propose marriage to bashful swains, an old discussion has been revived among Scottish historians, writes a Glasgow United Press correspondent.

For nearly a century a supposed statute signed by Queen Margaret of Scotland in the year 1228 has been offered as proof of the origin of leap year.

In that year the Scottish parliament is supposed to have passed the following law:

"It is statud and ordaint that during the rein of ilk maist blissit Mageste Margaret, for ilk yeare knowne as lepe yeare, ilk mayden ladye of bothe highe and lowe estate shall have liberte to bispoke ye man she likes.

"Gif he refuses to tak hir to bee his wyf he shale be mulct in ye sum of ane hundred pundes, or less, as his estate may be, except and always gif he can make it appeare that he is betrothit to another woman, then he schal be free."

A large group of modern historians point out that, although 1228 was a leap year, there was no "maist blissit Mageste Margaret" on the throne of Scotland. From 1214 to 1249 the country was ruled by Alexander II, they point out.

Moreover, they argue, the first mention of the statute was found in "The Illustrated Almanac" for 1865 and the "conscientiously antique wording" suggests an imaginative writer rather than a genuine document of the Thirteenth century.

Plotting "Blind Spots"

Plotting of the "blind spots" in a pilot's line of vision is accomplished by using an instrument called the visiometer. When placed in the cockpit of the plane at the spot where the pilot's head comes in actual flight, the device measures accurately the exact parts of the plane which obstruct vision. In military craft the problem is important because enemy planes could attack at one of the blind spots before the victim knew what was happening. Some of the World war pilots cut away parts of the fabric of their planes to enlarge their field of vision.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Chinese Doctor Knows Herbs

The Chinese physician takes his pre-medical course in the herb store, or apothecary shop. He begins by learning to grind and mix the powders and herbal compounds that he must prescribe when he has become a full-fledged doctor. Some of the prescriptions that he learns to fill are as beautiful as a poem, calling for orange and honeysuckle leaves or for the white bloom of the chrysanthemum. The Chinese apothecary's shop bears little resemblance to that of the American pharmacy.

A Matched Order

A matched order is an order to buy given simultaneously with an order to sell a similar number of shares of the same stock or an equal quantity of a commodity. Such an order really amounts to a fictitious sale and gives an appearance of activity in the particular stock or commodity which has no basis in actual demand. The purpose of matched orders is usually to cause an artificial or temporary rise in prices.

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

ARMIDA, the fascinating little Mexican girl who has made a name for herself on the screen, the stage and the air (at present she's heard from coast to coast on the "Paris Night Life" program), recently returned from Hollywood to New York with a lot of information about the radio programs which screen stars like best. She'd been making shorts in the movie center, but she checked up on the broadcasts between times.

She found that Charlie Chaplin doesn't listen to the radio comedians; he likes the capudines of symphony concerts, and the songs of Lawrence Tibbett, John Charles Thomas and Nino Martini. Bing Crosby likes to hear Dick Powell sing; he listens to Rudy Vallee's broadcasts, too, and to Jessica Dragonette. Joan Crawford will take dance music every time. And Claudette Colbert, Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire rarely fail to listen to Major Bowes' amateur hour.

Charlie Chaplin

Marlene Dietrich got what she wanted again. After fussing with Paramount over "I Loved a Soldier," and announcing that she'd go to Europe as fast as she could get there, to make a picture, she stayed in Hollywood, did some effective talking, and landed the role of leading lady in "The Garden of Allah," which Merle Oberon was supposed to make. Which means that now there's even less love lost between the two. Miss Oberon probably will do "Dark Victory" now.

Doris Dudley, whom you'll see before long in an RKO picture, believes that you've got to be goofy if you're going to get along either on the stage or on the screen. As she's a remarkably clever actress, (though she has had very little experience) she is likely to become one of our most important movie stars—so don't miss her first appearance on the screen if you like to be in on film history.

Ann Sothern had a grand time in New York, where she once appeared in musical comedy as Harriet Lake. Like all new arrivals from Hollywood, the one play she wanted to see was "Queen Victoria." Helen Hayes' current success. And like all the others, she left cheering.

She is so pretty that people turn on the street to stare at her; they don't recognize her, as a rule, but she has no illusions about her own greatness so that doesn't bother her—and unlike some of her co-workers, she doesn't go in for dark glasses and other similar invitations to be recognized as a celebrity.

Fred MacMurray seems to be the fair haired boy on the Paramount lot these days—perhaps because Gary Cooper seems inclined to sign with Samuel Goldwyn when his present contract expires. Fred has a new seven-year contract, and is slated to make three pictures that were originally intended for the laconic Mr. Cooper.

Fred MacMurray

Jean Parker's marriage startled a lot of people; she was honeymooning with her bridegroom, a young newspaper man, before most people realized that she knew him. If you want to congratulate her, address her as Mrs. George E. MacDonald.

They have four pictures lined up for Eleanor Powell when she feels well enough to begin work again, and how she dreads them! She feels that she gave everything she had in her first one, and doesn't see what she can do now that will interest those of us who sit out front.

Frank Parker, whom you've heard on the air in any number of programs, is said to receive more proposals than any other radio star. He claims that they're attracted not by his romantic tenor voice, or by his personality, but by his salary; it runs into four figures each week.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Dolores Del Rio is on her way to England to make a picture for Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. . . . Grace Moore also sailed, still talking about having to work with a cow in her latest picture . . . Walt Disney is still searching for amateur artists whom he can train to work for him . . . Stoopnagle and Budd will take Fred Allen's place on the air this summer . . . If you like "The Ghost Goes West" you're in good company; Ex-King Alfonso of Spain saw it in Paris, and liked it, too . . . Harold Lloyd is a bowling enthusiast . . . And his "The Milky Way" is one of the funniest pictures he ever made.

A copper tavern token inscribed "Foxall-Dublin" was recently dug up at George Washington Birthplace national monument, Wakenfield, Va. Several coins also were found. One, a silver piece dated 1679, bears the likeness of Charles II and is inscribed, "Carolus II. Dei Gratia dagna Br. Fr. et Hib Rex." This coin was in an excellent state of preservation and was found a foot or more under the surface and outside the basement walls of the original building, which burned on Christmas day, 1780.

A GREAT CONTRIBUTION TO EASIER, FASTER, MORE ECONOMICAL FARMING

Guarantee—This heavy, Separation Tread is guaranteed not to loosen from the tire body under any conditions, and all other parts of the tire are fully guaranteed to give satisfaction.

THREE years ago Harvey S. Firestone conceived the idea that farm work would be easier, faster, and more economical if it were done on rubber.

It was on the Old Homestead farm in Columbiana County, Ohio, which Mr. Firestone still operates, that he directed engineers and developed a practical pneumatic tire for tractors and every other wheeled implement on the farm. The result was a super-traction tire so unusual in design and so amazing in performance that a patent was issued on the tire by the United States Patent Office at Washington.

On tractors, Firestone Ground Grip Tires will do the work 25 per cent faster with a saving of 25 per cent in fuel cost. On sprayers, combines, binders and other farm implements they reduce draft 40 to 50 per cent; do not pack the soil, sink into soft ground or make ruts; protect equipment; do not damage crops and vines; speed up every farm operation.

One set of tires will fit several implements. Tires can be changed quickly from one implement to another. Two or three sets are all you need to take care of practically all your farm implements.

See the Firestone Tire Dealer, implement dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store today—and in placing your order for new equipment, be sure to specify Firestone Ground Grip Tires on your new tractor or farm implement.

READ WHAT FARMERS SAY ABOUT THESE REMARKABLE TIRES

CHILD SINGER IN EASTER PROGRAM.

Little Lucy McGary sang a solo, "The Holy City", in the First Methodist Church of Hondo Easter Sunday morning, to some 1500 or more people. This happens to be the largest church in Southern Methodism. Mr. Walter Jenkins, director of music there, is her teacher, as well as Miss Thelma Slocum, his assistant and also pianist of the church. Many friends have congratulated her and Mr. Jenkins, her teacher, says the child has a great future before her, and that the audience was greatly pleased with her singing. He says in his estimation she is what they call a child prodigy in singing. Miss Lucy studies quite hard and intends to go a great way in that particular line. Other teachers in Hondo predict she has a bright future and they all would like her for a pupil. That's why she is in Mr. Jenkins' hands as he is considered one of the finest in Hondo. He has charge of all the large programs put on in that city. Miss Lucy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton U. McGary of Houston and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Upton McGary of Hondo.

LARGE BARN BURNS.

A fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large barn and its contents on the farm owned by L. E. Kollman, Sr., north of Hondo, about eight o'clock Tuesday night. Four thousand bushels of corn, three hundred tons of hay, farm implements and harness were also burned, approximating a loss of $7,000. Help arrived in time to move the work stock to safety. There was insurance to cover the loss of the building.

AMUSING BILL-O-FARE AT CO-

LNIAL THIS WEEK.

Mae West sings three new songs in "Klondike Annie", her new picture, which shows Friday and Saturday at the Colonial Theatre—and another new number is also introduced in the film. The melodies offered by the blonde star are "I'm an Occidental Woman" by Gene Austin; "Little Bar Butterfly", by the same composer; and "Mr. Deep Blue Sea", by Austin and Jimmie Johnson. The other number in the production is "Cheer Up Little Sister", also by Austin. All four melodies were written especially for the star and picture. "Klondike Annie" is a story of Gold Rush days in Alaska with Mae dispensing her own idea of light in the Land of the Midnight Sun, and Victor McLaglen lending support to the effort.

Jack Haley is a country boy with a yen to be a government operative but not quite the stuff to make the grade, in "F Man", new comedy which shows Monday and Tuesday at the Colonial Theatre. That's the explanation for the title—in this amusing farce an "F Man" is someone not quite good enough to be a "G Man". Humor and romance develop around Haley's attempt to run down Public Enemy No. 1 and become Public Hero No. 1 himself. William Frawley cooperates with Haley on the humor, and Grace Bradley and Adrienne Marden on the romance. Onslow Stevens is the menace.

SENIOR PLAY APRIL 24TH.

With only two more weeks left before the scheduled time for their class play, the seniors are beginning to buzz around in a business-like way, making preparations for the big event of the year. Besides those who are in the cast itself, there are many others filling important positions in the management of business and technical matters.

Kyle Muennink and Marvin Leinweber have charge of the business management. The publicity committee is made up of Earline Watson, Blanche Clements, and Mary Kate Haesser. Hertha and Harold Weeber, Sis Merritt and Roy Bohlen form the program committee.

Henry Bende is arranging the lighting effects, Ethelyn Ney the make-up, and Florence Zuberbuehler the costumes. Lillian Hartman is acting as script reader.

Benny Oefinger, as stage manager, Grace Reily and Wilma Barkuloo as property managers, are planning the design for the stage.

LITERARY GLANCES.

Review of "It Runs in the Family".

Our literary eye turns today to the world of the theatre, and the event that catches our attention first is the senior class play, which our dignified schoolmates are presenting the evening of April 24.

Since the seniors are determined that no one shall see their rehearsals, we haven't yet been able to get a glimpse of the actors at work. Of course, there is a reason for their secrecy: "It Runs in the Family" is a mystery, and they are trying to keep it that way.

This secrecy makes it rather difficult for us to predict the quality of the forthcoming performance; but, if practice makes perfect, it should be exceedingly good. Seniors can be seen slipping into the auditorium at every hour of the day and far into the night.

This greatly anticipated play, "It Runs in the Family", is a comical mystery, which is guaranteed to steadily hold the interest and attention of the audience. The script itself is entertaining in the reading of it. This fact, plus the senior actors' interpretation of the roles, should assure play-goers of an entertaining performance.

Decided contrast is offered by the two families in the story: the Bingham and the Sanderses. The scenes of the play are laid in the country home of the Bingham. The Sanders family are professional crooks, who are planning to take a very valuable diamond from the Bingham.

You will see Marvin Koch as the scold millionaire, Mr. Bingham, and Evelyn Barnes as his loving but nagging wife. Their son, Don Bingham, is attending college whenever college does not interfere with his pleasures. Matters are made complicated when Beverly Nolan, a chorus girl with whom Don has been seen constantly, decides that she wants to marry the Bingham millions. Unable to rid himself of this scheming creature (which role Anna Laura Welhausen plays), Don writes her that he is leaving to be married to someone else. Then he and a close friend, Albert Smith (Harvey Renken), go out to the Bingham's country home to escape the pursuing Beverly.

With the hope of an opportunity to steal the famous Bingham diamond, Ann and Bill Sanders, brother and sister (played by Fern Ulbrich and Hugo Schweers respectively), have secured positions as maid and butler in the Bingham home. They are depending on their father, better known as "Pop" (Orceneth Fly, Jr.), to crack the safe and get the gem. (We are told that "Pop" is a scream, and that "Mom", played by Jean McCall, is two screams.)

The long-awaited opportunity finally comes when Mr. and Mrs. Bingham make an overnight visit into town to attend the opera. Bill immediately calls "Pop" to get on the "job"—then follows the real action which you will see in the play itself.

FOURTH GRADE.

The pupils of the fourth grade enjoyed an Easter party last Friday afternoon on the East side of the school building. Prizes were given to the ones finding the most eggs. They were Bernice Taylor, John Allen Eckhart, and Lois Sumner.

The room mother, Mrs. Taylor, furnished ice cream cones for everyone present.

—Owlets—

SECOND GRADE.

The pupils of the Second Grade enjoyed a wonderful Easter hunt Friday afternoon. Thank you, Miss Conner, for telling the bunny that it was so good.

F.F.A. Track and Tennis Tournament

F. F. F. CLUB.

The F. F. F. Club met on Friday with Miss Mary Frances Van Fleet as hostess. This is the first meeting with our sponsor, Miss Shaw. The club members were in for a very much anticipated afternoon. Miss Van Fleet met us at school. We piled in her car until it looked like an overflowing Easter basket. We had been told by Mary Frances that we were all to go horseback riding after we got there. We were all very excited over it, in fact, we already had our feet in the stirrups. After we arrived we were lead to the stable where—we found seven s-t-i-c-k horses—all in bridle and rein! After that each member had to put on a vodvil act which would have made 'ole Major Bowes ashamed of himself.

We were then served refreshments, which consisted of delicious tuna-fish salad, potato chips, olives, angel food cake, and iced tea.

We finished the afternoon by a bracing good game of baseball. Folks, you should see Miss Shaw play ball. She's a second Babe Ruth. A pitcher, well, I'll say so. Sometimes she pitched as high as a tree.

Mrs. Van Fleet brought the delightful evening to a close by delivering each of the following to the doorsteps: Ruth McWilliams, Lorine Eckhardt, Bonita Speece, Mildred and Mary Frances Van Fleet, Frances Wools, and Miss Shaw.

SUB-DEBS ENTERTAIN.

Saturday evening the Sub-Debs entertained with a progressive dinner followed by a dance. The main course, which was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Boon by Anna Welhausen and Ginger Fusselman, consisted of salmon loaf, creamed peas, buttered potatoes, tomato and lettuce salad, and hot buttered rolls.

The second course, strawberries in Maryanns with whipped cream and coffee, was served by Misses Annette Rothe and Evelyn Knopp, at Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Knopp's home. The table was beautifully decorated with yellow pansies and candles.

The next main feature was dancing which took place on the Knopp's porch. Those enjoying the dinner and dance were Doris Windrow, Frances Haegelin, Annette Rothe, Sidney Simmons, Gwen Gray, Anna Welhausen, Ginger Fusselman, Evelyn Knopp, Kyle Muennink, John Henry Meyer, Johnny Crouch, Jimmy Smith, Babo Windrow, Jerome Finger, Charles Tondre, Ep Finger.

—Owlets—

SIXTH GRADE.

The pupils in our room are beginning to enjoy our flower boxes now. Planted in our boxes are pansies, sweet peas, snapdragons, and flowering moss. It will be several weeks before they will start blooming.

Those enjoying Easter hunts were: Jonelle Gaines, Mary Frances Van Fleet, Ella Ray, Ina Joyce Brucks, Herbert Bulgerin, and Nora Ann Bende.

Billy Ney went out into his garden and built three nice Easter nests for old man rabbit, but Billy must have been a bad boy lately for the next morning those nests were still empty.

Walter Haass ruined his chances of any more happy Easters. He killed two bunnies Sunday morning.

Nora Ann Bende, Meyer Morris, and Jonelle Gaines went to Dolly Taylor's party.

Betty Jack Rollins from College Station visited Frances Van Fleet during the Easter holidays.

Lela Grace Reily was honored with a birthday dinner at her home Saturday night at seven-thirty. The Easter scheme was carried out. In the center of the table was an Easter nest containing huge colored eggs and a chicken.

The dinner consisted of shrimp cocktail, baked chicken, buttered potatoes, snap beans, tomato and lettuce salad, hot rolls, cranberry sauce, iced tea, and strawberry shortcake with whipped cream.

Those enjoying the evening were Misses Fern Ulbrich, Evelyn Barnes, Jacqueline Adams, the honoree and Jo Reily, and Messrs. Orceneth Fly, Bill Heyen, Tom Laxson and Benny Oefinger.

GEOMETRY NEWS.

The pupils of the two Plane Geometry classes have been busy the last week measuring the school grounds. They measured all of the sides and angles in the grounds. After getting them as exact as possible they had to draw maps in exact proportion to the measurements. Besides having a lot of fun they learned something about making maps.

REVIEW OF CHORAL CLUB WORK.

The Choral Club has a very full schedule for the remainder of the year. On the thirtieth of April a Musical Tea is to be given in the Hondo High School Auditorium. The entertainment will be furnished by the Choral Club. It should be a success and the girls hope to make enough money to buy the music for a modern opera which will be given in the latter part of May. On the first of May the Hondo High School will be represented in the State Meet at Seguin by a quartette, a duet, three vocal solos, two violin solos, a flute duet, a humorous characterization, dramatics, and poetry.

Plans are being made for a radio program to be given over WOAL. The time is indefinite. Then after "the work's all done this spring" the entire Choral Club is going to have a dinner in San Antonio—at which there'll be no singing.

The girls have really worked this semester and they deserve a lot of credit. Singing may not seem like work to some people but just let them try to give an operetta or a musical program and they'll find out all about it.

—Owlets—

FIFTH GRADE.

Miss Shaw was in San Antonio during the Easter holidays.

Lorine Eckhardt went to see her grandmother in Tarpley.

Betty Lou Schlameus went to Del Rio.

Robert Lee Cosgrove went to Bandera to visit his uncle.

Other pupils who went to see their grandmothers during the Easter holidays are: Stella Mae Grell, Glenrose Brucks, E. J. Williams, Geraldine Stiegler, and Dorothy Wools.

Dorothy Marie Graff had Easter dinner with her aunt, Mrs. Nester.

Miss Shaw locked the doors of the fifth grade room Friday morning. When they were opened, to the surprise of everyone, the Easter bunny had visited the room and had deposited a grand load of Easter eggs, candy, rabbits and chickens. They were all laying in a nest on Miss Shaw's desk. There was also a nest for Bud, one for Mr. Laxson, one for Miss Richards, and one for Miss Shaw.

BOARD HOLDS ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Ten votes were cast in the school board election held Saturday, April 4. Mr. R. J. Reily and Mr. Henry Merriman, present incumbents, were re-elected without a dissenting vote.

At a meeting of the school board, held Monday night, April 6, the same officers of the board were re-elected. They are: Dr. H. J. Meyer, president; Mr. Henry Merriman, vice-president; Mr. J. R. Chancey, secretary. Mr. Barry was re-elected superintendent for his ninth consecutive year.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS HIDE EASTER EGGS.

Three of our highly dignified high school girls, Ginger Fusselman, Jo Reily, and Ada Bell Carter, were seen hiding Easter eggs last Friday afternoon. Those who watched them thought they were real Easter bunnies. A certain high school boy said that he thought they were dumb bunnies rather than Easter bunnies.

—Owlets—

FIRST GRADE.

We were all good little children and the Easter rabbit paid us a visit Friday afternoon. You should see the chickens and rabbits in our yard! Our mother treated us with ice cream after the Easter hunt Friday.

We have some new spelling books.

Ford Builds at Texas Centennial

PHOTO ABOVE shows the huge Ford Exposition building at the Texas Centennial, Dallas, as it will appear when completed. Construction is now in progress, the general contract having been awarded to the Central Contracting Company of Dallas. Foundations are now completed and erection of 363 tons of steel work is under way. The steel work is expected to be completed within three weeks and the entire building and exhibits will be ready for the Exposition opening June 6.

The structure, which will have a complete air cooling and humidifying system, will house exhibits showing manufacturing and testing processes used by the Ford Motor Company in its Rouge plant at Dearborn, Mich. A huge outdoor court will be attractively landscaped and will contain comfortable chairs and benches where visitors may relax in the shade under colorful umbrellas. On one side of the Ford Building will be nine reconstructed historic roads, trails and highways to be known as the "Roads of the Southwest," over which visitors will be transported in a fleet of Ford V-8 cars.

FROM YANCEY.

Who would have thought last week that winter would re-appear? We are thankful, however, that we are not having the storms and floods that are raging in the other states.

Misses Hodges and Scott accompanied Miss Ellen Wilson to Uvalde last Saturday for the tennis games. Miss Ellen won first. Mr. Earl Berry attended the games also.

Miss Frankie Wiley attended the marriage of her sister in San Antonio last week-end.

Misses Horger, Forbes, Hodges and Wilkinson went to San Antonio shopping last Saturday.

Miss Thelma McCaughan of San Antonio visited homefolks last week after an absence of a year or more in California.

Rev. Marshall of Devine is conducting a revival here—began last Friday and will continue during this week. Attendance has been very good so far.

Mrs. Joan G. Faseler is at the Medina Hospital, entertaining a new baby girl.

Some time during last Thursday night Mr. John Fiseier's barn caught on fire and Mr. Fiseier was not at home. Mr. Ed Saathoff saw the fire and drove out there, thinking there were people there trying to extinguish it, and found no one at home—so he called neighbors to come and in the meantime he proceeded to put out the fire around the hay stacks and other outhouses, thus keeping the fire under control until help came. The big barn and contents were an entire loss. It contained four tons of broomcorn, about one hundred dollars worth of mohair and a good deal of corn, and all his harness and implements.

Rev. Crockett exchanged pulpits with Rev. Marshall of Devine last Sunday morning.

Last Saturday was trustee election day. The following were elected here: Mr. A. J. Hardt and Mr. Philip Nixon, and Mr. Henry Saathoff was re-elected.

"POPEYE" STATUE FOR CRYSTAL CITY IN WINTER GARDEN SPINACH SECTION PROPOSED.

Idea Suggested by O. P. Schnabel, San Antonio Life Insurance Man.

Schnabel has written a letter to Ben U. Comalander, President of the Winter Garden Chamber of Commerce at Crystal City, suggesting that a suitable statue be erected at some central place in the Winter Garden District.

Schnabel has sent the Winter Garden Chamber of Commerce a check for $10 which is to be used as a "starter" for a fund to build the statue.

It is Schnabel's idea that when the statue is completed that a fitting ceremony and celebration be held at which Mr. E. C. Segar will be the honor guest.

A drawing of the proposed statue has been made, without charge, by Max M. Sandfield, San Antonio architect, a close friend of Schnabel's.

The base of the proposed statue will be in the form of a large can of spinach with "Popeye" sitting on the can and holding a smaller can in his hand out of which he is partaking of the strength producing product.

In speaking of the idea, O. P. Schnabel stated that in his opinion E. C. Segar through his "Popeye" cartoon and through his movie comedies had done much to get the youngsters as well as grown-ups spinach-conscious. Erection of this statue would be in recognition of the splendid national publicity given this delicacy by E. C. Segar.

MRS. KATIE SCHOTT.

Mrs. Katie Schott died suddenly at her home at Bader Settlement, 4 miles north of Dunlay, at 9:30 P. M., April 8, 1936. Mrs. Schott was in seemingly good health, and while out in the yard suddenly collapsed. Mr. Schott with the aid of others carried her into the house, but without regaining consciousness she died soon after.

The deceased was born at Bader Settlement on April 18, 1874, and was the oldest daughter of Edward and Julia Meyer, who preceded her in death many years. In May, 1895, she was happily married to Dominic Schott, who survives her, and of this union were born two children, namely, Paul Schott and Mrs. Adolph Schneider of Bader Settlement. Deceased is further survived by one sister, Mrs. Charles Krenmueller, of Dunlay; two grandchildren, besides a host of relatives and friends who were deeply shocked at her sudden passing. Two brothers, Wm. and Henry Meyer, preceded her in death.

The remains were brought to Castroville on Good Friday, April 10th, at 3:00 o'clock and rested in the St. Louis hall until 4 o'clock, the hour set for the funeral, where they were viewed by those who knew her living. At 4 o'clock after service at the hall the deceased was carried to the St. Louis Church and after services there was interred in the St. Louis Cemetery, where she now rests in peace from earthly labors and sufferings to rise again on Judgment Day. Rev. Dean J. Lenzen performed the last sad rites.

Mr. and Mrs. Schott after their marriage resided at Biry, but in 1902 moved to Bader Settlement where they resided up to her death.

A faithful wife, a good mother, a kind neighbor and a woman who always had a friendly disposition for all has gone to her last reward.

A large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends followed the remains to their last resting place.

We extend our sincerest condolences to the bereaved in the loss of their loved one. May a good Heavenly Father comfort them all in their great bereavement. May she rest in peace.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to take this means to thank all our neighbors and friends who so willingly assisted us at the death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Katie Schott. We also wish to thank all those sending flowers as well as those who attended the funeral. The kind acts shown and the sympathy expressed will always be gratefully remembered.

DAISIES DEAL DEATH TO BILLIONS OF INSECTS.

Strange as it may seem, a beautiful red daisy closely related to our common field daisy with its orange disc center and white petals (she loves me—she loves me not) is the deadliest enemy of house flies, mosquitoes, moths and other perennial pests. Contact with this colorful field flower instantly gives the insects a nervous breakdown (no fooling!) and within a few seconds, unable to forage for food or water, they starve to death.

"Pyrethrum", scientists call the deadly daisy essence, which they now use as a powerful killing constituent in insect spray. And today, when flies, roaches, moths or whatnots get on the harassed housewife's nerves she goes them one better. She flies for the spray gun and gives the flies a swift and deadly case of nervous prostration.

It was a Jugo-Slavish hausfrau who accidentally discovered the insect-killing power of the pyrethrum daisy when she picked a bouquet of the bright red flowers and put them on a table in the house. Later she noticed a great number of dead insects around the withered bouquet. Subsequently, small European manufacturers ground the flowers into a fine powder and distributed it about the Continent as a dust to be blown at insects by means of small blowers. More recently, pyrethrum daisy growing has become an agricultural industry in various countries and the Gulf Oil Corp. of Penna.-Gulf Refining Co. imports vast quantities of the death-dealing yellow dust for use in its insect sprays.

According to Dr. William A. Simanton, entomologist at Gulf's Research Laboratories, the killing action of pyrethrum is very rapid, when mixed in proper quantities with an especially refined hydrocarbon carrier and sprayed as a fine mist into a room or cupboard. When the fine mist comes in contact with an insect, it penetrates into the insect's nervous system, destroying the nerve cells, causing paralysis. Within a few seconds death results from starvation. The organs and functions of insect bodies are decidedly different in many respects from those of the human body and those of animals and birds. Hence pyrethrum, so deadly to flies, mosquitoes, roaches, moths and other insects and their larvae, has no effect on human beings or their pets.

So if the dog or the cat or "the old man" gets on the housewife's nerves, the Gulf spray gun won't do much good.

New Antarctic Land Found by Norwegian Oil Tanker

Announcement in Oslo that a new land in the Antarctic had been discovered by the Norwegian oil tanker, Thorshavn, has aroused much interest in Norway. This discovery is not only of importance in the mapping of the South Antarctic region, but may lead to Norway annexing more territory in the Antarctic.

Some years ago Norway disputed with Great Britain the ownership of Bouvet Island, which lies in the same region and is of value to Norwegian whalers in the Antarctic. The Thorshavn's discovery means that Norwegian explorers have at last found the missing link between King Leopold Land, Queen Astrid Land and Lars Christensen's Land.

Onion Sold as a Lily Bulb Legally in New York City

An onion is a lily, not only botanically but legally.

A need merchant tells that some time ago a bright young man loaded a pushcart with crimson bulbs, wheeled them to a New York City station, and did a lively business selling "allium cepa lilies" to home-going commuters, relates the Milwaukee Journal.

Somebody had him arrested; said he was peddling ordinary red onions. He admitted that, but the judge discharged him. An allium cepa lily, declared the court, is an onion.

Jacket Costumes Lead Fashion Parade

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

JACKET costume! A mere matter of two words and about the most important chapter in the story of the new spring and summer fashions is told. The consensus among style creators who know whereof they speak is that becomingness, femininity and individuality are the keynotes of women's fashions this season.

The new costume with its inevitable jacket (if not a cunningly devised cape) does just that. It flatters, it feminizes and being in a widely versatile mood, it tunes to type at the will of its ingenious designer. So it is that the colorful spring parade is mostly a matter of just one jacket costume after another.

Trekking along in the procession, boleros of Spanish extraction hobnob with jackets that have gone obviously Chinese. Hosts of smart Etons vary the program together with a goodly showing of stylish fingertip jackets. The new "baby reefer" and the just as new and important "baby swaggar" are likewise keeping step to the spring-song of fashion.

The new redingote, Eton and bolero costumes in navy or black which are considered fashion "firsts" on the style program form intriguing alliances with prints that pride themselves on their gay coloring. Jacket linings, sleeve facings, blouses and innumerable trimming details of bizarre print in contrast to monotonous challenge designers to work out stunning effects.

Jackets of bright print or embroidery worn with gown or skirt in a solid color are outstanding. This is true not only of silk and woolen ensembles but swanky printed linens and colorful peasant-print cottons are especially attractive styles, according to this formula.

PLEATED SLEEVES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Designers are doing interesting things with sleeves. Pleated sleeves are very high style this season. This appeal because of its sophisticated simplicity. Its pleated sleeves give an air of distinction. The belt, tiny collar and employing all the modern touches design by Madame Jolies of Vienna. This charming bag with its dark ground and subdued colorings with jeweled clasps at the side of the gold frame makes a striking contrast to the gown.

Fancy Buttons

If you are having a number of buttons covered for a suit or dress have a few extra ones made and drop them in your mending basket. No doubt you will be very grateful for them later on.

LACE NOW INVADERS WHOLE DRESS FIELD

The new summer collections in Paris are always eagerly awaited. This year they have brought more in novelty and charm than could have been anticipated. Femininity characterizes the fashions offered by all of the great designers, and in achieving feminine charm, the couturiers have chosen the preferred medium—lace. This return to favor of a material so long overlooked by the mode is outstanding, and it has come back not only in the classic varieties of lace to which we have become accustomed, but in many new and fascinating forms, which seem very definitely fabrics.

These new types are being employed widely for street dresses and summer suits, definitely tailored in effect. The prominence given lace in this type of clothes has also called attention to the practicalness and charm of cotton nets and tulle as a material for tailoring. Suits of these materials are shown and the new laces are utilized for long redingotes which veil evening frocks in an alluring mist.

Hand-Knit Silk Ensembles Are New Fashion Offering

Import collections show a number of hand-knitted silk ensembles. Anny Blatt, first to create a hand-knitted evening gown, has launched a hand-knitted silk wedding gown and a fine, sheer hand-knit veil. Her collection also includes knitted silk suits, dresses and blouses in daytime, cocktail and dinner styles.

New pure silk yarns have been developed for both hand-made and machine-knit costumes. They are easy to work with, wash like lingerie and are dressy enough for afternoon and bridge wear. The new silk yarns, which are the latest word to knitters, come in a wide range of colors both dark and light.

TALL TALES

As Told to:

FRANK E. HAGAN and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

A Splitting Tale

BEN SUTTON of Colorado Springs, Colo., has an Uncle Jim who never splits an armload of kindling for his wife but that he thinks of the time over on the Western Slope when he was working for a man, splitting logs. One morning he had an immense tree half-way split open when 26 Ute Indians surrounded him and their chief, old Holey Moccasin, told him he'd have to go back to camp with them.

Uncle Jim knew darned well they intended to burn him at the stake but he said "All right, I'll go. But first I've got to get this log split. My boss will fire me if he finds I've gone off and left it undone. Now, if you want me to go very soon, you've just got to turn in and help me."

The chief agreed to help, so Uncle Jim put 13 of the Utes on one side of the log and 13 on the other. "Now, all of you get a deep holt and pull," he said. "Take both hands and I'll drive the wedges in while you hold the split open."

The redskins did just as he directed and began pulling as hard as they could while Uncle Jim began tapping at the wedges. But instead of driving them in, he began loosening them.

Suddenly he knocked the wedges out—one, two, three! . . . just like that. The log snapped shut like a steel trap and there were the Utes with their hands caught in it. So Uncle Jim just took his maul and went up one side of the log and down the other, tapping the Indians on the head as he went. Then he left 'em. He doesn't know whether he just gave them a bad headache or killed them because he never saw any of those Utes again.

Little Drops of Water

ROBERT H. MOULTON, author and marketing authority, once lived among the ridge runners of Tennessee. He likes to recall the hazards of those earlier days when a man had to go out and get his meat before breakfast if he expected to eat at all.

"Once I was hunting squirrels in the Cumberland mountains," he recalls. "I was using pappy's old muzzle-loading rifle and was making every shot count. Had a nice bag of squirrels and started home when I discovered all my bullets were gone."

"At that unfortunate moment a huge bear appeared on the trail and began to chase me. So disturbed was I that beads of perspiration rolled off my forehead."

"Luckily for me, the weather turned cold very suddenly as I headed into a cove. The beads froze and by quick work I was able to catch one of them, ram it into the muzzle of my gun and fire it into the head of the bear."

"It probably would not have been a fatal injury to the bear but I had no more than fired when the weather turned suddenly warm again. The bear, I am happy to report, immediately died with water on the brain!"

A Story Full of Interest

UP AROUND Spooner, Wis., is a natural, of course, that spoon fishing should be popular not only with the natives but with the 26,444 visitors who inhabit the region every summer. At least, that is the assertion of Fred Record, of Barrington, Ill.

"One of my friends fished a lake in the Spooner region fifteen years ago, but with indifferent success," says Record. "This man used a spoon, but for some reason the lure of its whirr failed to attract the specimens with which the lake abounded."

"My friend was quitting in disgust and leaned over the side of his boat. A $10 gold piece—for in those days the possession of gold was no misdemeanor—fell from his pocket, spun in the water and was seized and swallowed by a fish, which darted away."

"Five years ago, this friend and I returned to the same lake. Again, my companion's luck was poor. But just at sundown he landed an enormous pickerel which we took to camp for our dinner. You can imagine the delight of my friend, on cleaning the fish, to discover a $10 gold piece in its belly."

"The treasure was slightly tarnished, it is true. But to offset this, my friend also removed three $2 bills from the fish. The $6, we figured out later, represented 6 per cent interest on the gold piece for ten years. It pleased us to learn that the amount was exactly correct."

Age of Santa Fe Trail

The question of the age of the Santa Fe Trail has never been definitely decided, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune. Some say the path of travel from the prehistoric aboriginal settlements in the Illinois country to the cliff dwellings and pueblos of the Southwest existed centuries before the white man came to America. Others maintain there is no evidence of any such primeval path and nothing to show that the mound builders of the upper Mississippi country and the pueblos of the mountain valleys ever had any social relations. The first white man to whom credit is given for having traveled at least a part of the route was Coronado. He and his men are supposed to have hit the trail on their journey to Quivera in 1541, at a point near what is now Dodge City, Kan.

King Edward Thrashed by Brakeman as a School Boy

How Edward VIII was thrashed by the brakeman of a train at Torquay, England, has been disclosed by S. A. Cooper, ticket collector at Torquay. More than 20 years ago, a train of Dartmouth naval cadets stopped at Torquay. The brakeman, passing down the corridor, received a pea behind the ear. The pea was fired from a pea-shooter. The brakeman entered the car and locked the door. He invited the culprit to own up. The half-dozen cadets kept silent and so the brakeman methodically beat every cadet with his flag-stick. Each had took his punishment stoically. Later the brakeman was told that one of the lads was the future King.

Tobacco Chewing Is Listed Among Ways to Start a Fire

Everybody knows that smokers often contribute to fire hazards, but now, under certain circumstances, tobacco chewers are in the same category. At a recent safety conference it was shown how the bleaching room of a textile factory is no place to chew in.

The insurance engineers sprinkled sawdust on a table on which was spilled a small quantity of bleach containing sodium peroxide. Tobacco juice on this combination caused a burst of flame.

Kitchens 10,000 Years Old Found in South Australia

Parts of kitchens believed to be at least ten thousand years old have been unearthed near Kingston, South Australia. They are thought to have been used by some of Australia's earliest inhabitants. The utensils consisted of 1,400 sharp-edged axes of flint and many knives, all of the Paleolithic age.

TAKE A TIP FROM ME... IF YOU'VE GOT COFFEE-NERVES TRY POSTUM!

CHILDREN should never drink coffee... and the caffeine in coffee disagrees with many grown-ups, too. If you are bothered by headaches or indigestion, or can't sleep soundly... try Postum for 30 days! It contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. Easy to make, costs less than one-half cent a cup. It's delicious, too... and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.

QUIHI NOTES.

And she went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink.
Gen. 21:19.

What else could Hagar have done?
It's the nearest and simplest, after
God has provided that well of water for her emergency. So we think, and justly so. But often we act differ-ently. Even Hagar might have started to muse and to speculate, how it all came about; whether it would reach to save her and her son; whether He could not offer more than mere water? She needed so mightily much and God seemed to deal niggardly
with her. She had a thousand wishes for her future up her sleeve, and only a trifle was granted, only the immediate need was considered; she thought she had miles to make and provision seemed to be made for only one short step. But she did the right thing, following God's way, receiving
one thing after another, as the day,
the circumstances, would require it.
She understood, He Who takes care
of the small things and simple needs,
will also take care of the big things
in due time. It's not always our way of thinking. Our prayers are often muddled slush, nothing definite,
nothing concrete. We do not know what we want and what we really need, and often despite the daily hand-outs from God's hand that should lead up to the greater bulk of things. We often forget that God knows our capacity, what we can really stand and safely digest, that He knows that some big morsels might choke us. Our wants differ as do our tastes. One can manage a little garden plot, another vast areas. One is satisfied with "Turkey in the Straw", the other needs a Wagner opera; a sip of cool water slacks the thirst for many, where others clamor for sparkling champagne. He has our number and measure and size, and will provide accordingly, leading up to the greater, the thing of lasting importance, if we let Him. St. Paul puts it this way, He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up
for us all, how shall he not with him
also freely give us all things?

with her. She had a thousand wishes
for her future up her sleeve, and only a trifle was granted, only the immediate need was considered; she thought she had miles to make and
provision seemed to be made for only
one short step. But she did the right thing, following God's way, receiving
one thing after another, as the day,
the circumstances, would require it.
She understood, He Who takes care
of the small things and simple needs,
will also take care of the big things
in due time. It's not always our way of thinking. Our prayers are often muddled slush, nothing definite,
nothing concrete. We do not know
what we want and what we really
need, and often despite the daily
hand-outs from God's hand that should lead up to the greater bulk of things. We often forget that God
knows our capacity, what we can really stand and safely digest, that He knows that some big morsels might choke us. Our wants differ as do our tastes. One can manage a little garden plot, another vast areas. One is satisfied with "Turkey in the Straw", the other needs a Wagner
opera; a sip of cool water slacks the
thirst for many, where others clamor
for sparkling champagne. He has our number and measure and size, and
will provide accordingly, leading up to the greater, the thing of lasting importance, if we let Him. St. Paul puts it this way, He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up
for us all, how shall he not with him
also freely give us all things?

What else could Hagar have done?
It's the nearest and simplest, after
God has provided that well of water
for her emergency. So we think, and justly so. But often we act differ-ently. Even Hagar might have started to muse and to speculate, how it
all came about; whether it would
reach to save her and her son; whether He could not offer more than mere water? She needed so mightily much
and God seemed to deal niggardly
with her. She had a thousand wishes
for her future up her sleeve, and only a trifle was granted, only the immediate need was considered; she thought she had miles to make and
